

Dear Former Corinthian College Students,

The U. S. Department of Education (ED) has provided the following information regarding the closure of Corinthian Colleges.

April 27, 2015, Corinthian Colleges announced that they were ceasing operations and instruction at their remaining 30 locations across the country. Students impacted by this closure may have the option of applying for a closed school loan discharge or transferring their earned credits to another institution and continuing their education.

If you were impacted by the closure of Corinthian Colleges and want to apply for a closed school loan discharge, you must:

- Contact your loan servicer about the application process for getting your loan discharged.
- Complete and return the Closed School Loan Discharge Application sent to you by your servicer.
(Optional: You may complete this Closed School Loan Discharge Application and return it to your loan servicer.)

NOTE: All completed Closed School Loan Discharge Applications must be sent to your requisite loan servicer. To find out who your loan servicer is, log in to My Federal Student Aid or call 1-800-4-FED-AID. Read our overview of the closed school loan discharge process for more information.

Corinthian will be held responsible for any return of federal student aid funds which were due to students and had been received, but not earned, prior to closure. The (ED) will work with Corinthian officials to make sure unearned student Pell and loan funds are restored for future eligibility.

The ED is also diligently working with Corinthian to process student records from the 30 affected schools as soon as possible so that transfer schools can start accessing the students' remaining federal student aid eligibility.

Students from the 30 locations across the five states directly impacted by this closure may also be eligible for State Tuition Recovery Fund refunds. For more information on eligibility and the process for filing a state claim against a closed school for loss of tuition, see our frequently asked questions page.

View the list of schools that were impacted by the closure notice. We are also providing information about comparable programs of study which may serve as potential transfer options for students enrolled at each of the 30 campuses. The ED has not confirmed that the institutions listed will accept Corinthian credits as part of any transfer. Students interested in any of the programs of study listed should contact the institution to determine next steps. You may also wish to view the list of schools that were on a Heightened Cash Monitoring (HCM) payment method as of March 1, 2015, while making a decision about selecting a school to attend. Additional information regarding that process can also be found on the HCM Web page.
