

Summary Results of ENGL101E Writing Center Reports

Fall 2018 through Fall 2019

Introduction

The purpose of this report is to explore students' use of the Writing Center's (WC) services, as well as its effectiveness, for students enrolled in Reading and Composition with Support – ENGL101+101S – with an Embedded Tutor (ET) versus without.

Writing Center Usage

Among the students that went to the Writing Center at least once, the average number of visits per student was compared to students in non-ET classes.

- HIGHER (in Fall 2018)
- HIGHER (in Spring 2019)
- SAME (in Fall 2019)

	ENGL101E Course Type	WC Attendees	Number of Visits	Average Visits	Range

Demographics of Writing Center attendees

In Fall 2018 males enrolled in an ENGL101E embedded tutor class used the Writing Center at a higher proportion than females.

However, in both Spring 2019 and Fall 2019, female students visited the Writing Center at a higher proportion than males, regardless of whether they were enrolled in ENGL101E with or without embedded tutoring. The proportion of females that attended is slightly higher than their overall representation on campus.

Success Rates of ET and WC attendees

Students in ET classes had LOWER success rates compared to students in non-ET classes.

- LOWER (in Fall 2018)
- LOWER (in Spring 2019)
- LOWER (in Fall 2019)

Students who visited the WC at least once had HIGHER success rates overall than those that did not.

- HIGHER (in Fall 2018)
- HIGHER (in Spring 2019)
- HIGHER (in Fall 2019)

For Fall 2018 students who attended the Writing Center and were in an ENGL101E class with an embedded tutor, had the highest success rate.

However, for both Spring 2019 and Fall 2019, students who attended the Writing Center and were in an ENGL101E without an embedded tutor, had the highest success rate.

Across all terms, the group with the lowest success rate were students who did not attend the Writing Center but had an embedded tutor.
